

[0:00] A person is shown sitting at a desk, using a laptop to access the Tennessee General Assembly website. [0:02] They navigate to the 'Bill Search' page, which is clearly visible on the screen. [0:04] The camera zooms in as the person types a specific bill number into the search field. [0:06] They click the 'Search' button, and the page updates to show the bill's current status and history. [0:08] The scene highlights how easy it is to track legislative progress through official records, even during a recess.
